NEWS OF THE LEGISLATURE OF LOCAL INTEREST

Special to The Sun
STATE HOUSE, Boston, April 18.—The house had a little busy day today over Senator Arthur W. Colburn's amendment to the resolutions asking congress to take such action as may be necessary to regulate the retail price of coal, the amendment adding "wheat, corn, oats and other cereals" as other commodities the prices of which should be regulated.

Representative Burr of Boston opposed the amendment as a "piece of asininity," and it looked as though he might succeed in preventing concurrence, for when the rising vote was taken there were 34 members in favor and the same number opposed. When a roll-call was ordered, however, and it became necessary to go on record in black and white, most of the "doubting Thomases" fled to cover, and the house concurred, 125 to 79.

Within a day or two attested copies of the resolutions will be forwarded by the secretary of the commonwealth to Vice President Marshall and Speaker Clark of the House.

Marchand's Bill Kept Alive
On motion of Senator James W. Bean of Cambridge, action was postponed until next Monday on the report of the public service committee, against the petition of former Senator George E. Marchand for legislation to authorize the appointment of two additional court officers in Middlesex county.

Textile School Wins
A unanimous report in favor of the Lowell Textile school bill—appropriating $50,000 for the maintenance of the school and approximately $18,000 for improvements—was filed in the senate today by the ways and means committee. Inasmuch as Senator Bean of Cambridge is a member of this committee, it is assumed that his opposition to the original resolve has been placated as a result of the change made by the committee on education.

George Chestley's Annuity Favored
Another matter on which the senate ways and means committee has acted favorably is the bill permitting the county of Middlesex to pay an annuity of $200 per year to George Chestley of Lowell, formerly an employee of the county, but who after 19 years of service is now incapacitated by approaching blindness.

Tour Workers' Bill in Danger
As expected, the senate today refused to concur with the house in its amendment to the bill limiting the hours of labor of employees in paper mills, the house desiring that such employees shall not be "requested or permitted" to work more than eight hours per day, while the senate insists that the prohibition shall be only that they shall not be "required" to do so. The senate took its action by a roll-call vote of 25 to 16, so there seems little chance that it will recede, and unless the house takes back water the bill will probably fail to pass.

Civil Service for City Clerks
The public service committee reported a bill providing that city clerks shall be under the civil service rules and regulations in all cities which accept the provisions of the act.

Constitutional Convention
By a unanimous opinion, submitted to the senate, the justices of the supreme court decide that the legislature has no authority to amend the act providing for the constitutional convention, and that it cannot permit women to vote on the recommendations of the convention. The court declined to discuss the questions submitted by the legislature as to the method which the convention should adopt for submitting its recommendations to the people, basing its decision upon the fact that the legislature has before it no legislation which might be affected by the court's decision on these questions.

Shortly after the decision of the court was announced, a petition was filed in the house providing that the holding of the convention shall be postponed until June, 1918, and that the election, scheduled for Tuesday, May 1, this year, be postponed until the first Tuesday in May, 1918.

This petition was referred to the committee on rules, but in view of the court's decision it seems hardly probable that it will be admitted for consideration.

Farm Labor Shortage
The house committee on rules has before it an order requiring the secretary of the state board of agriculture to inform the house on or before next Monday as to the prevailing conditions in Massachusetts with respect to the shortage of laborers on farms.

New Kind of Strike
Just at the time when the officials of the commonwealth are bending every energy to secure the earliest possible completion of the Boston drydock, their hands were completely tied today when one hundred Italian laborers went on strike, demanding that they be permitted to work more than eight hours per day. So far as can be ascertained, this is the first time in the history of the commonwealth that laboring men have struck for longer hours.

TO PERMIT GARDENING ON SUNDAY
BOSTON, April 18.—The house committee on rules has voted to recommend a suspension of the rules to admit a bill based on the petition of Senator John E. Beck of Chelsea that the cultivation of home gardens on the Lord's day be permitted.

A bill to authorize cities and towns to plow and harrow private land upon application of the owners of such land was filed yesterday in the house of representatives by Representative J. Weston Allen on behalf of the city officials of Newton.

The bill provides that, during the war and for one year after, cities and towns of over 5000 population may plow and harrow private lands. The amount of land to be so prepared for any one owner shall not exceed two acres and the cost of the work shall be paid by the owners.

Work authorized under the act may be done under the direction of the superintendent of streets, or the board or other having like authority in any city or town or by the municipal forester or tree warden.

LICENSE COMMISSION
The license commission met in regular session last night and transacted considerable business. At this time of the year practically all of the minor licenses are renewed and last night the first batch of annual renewals was acted upon.

Y.M.C.A.
The Glee club held a rehearsal last evening in preparation for tomorrow night's entertainment. This event promises to be the greatest of its kind shown upon the stage by amateur performers in this city.

The scene represents an old campground just after sunset with all the soldier boys sitting around the campfires and the tents and cannon may be seen in the background.

The songs to be sung are consistent with the scenery and they will be sung taken at night, make a great difference in the way you greet the morning. Try them, and know the joy of waking fresh and fit, eager for the work of the day. Experience Is the Test of Tires

Every tire claims to be the lowest-cost-per-mile tire.

If you knew the experience of any considerable number of other tire users, —that would help you decide which tire makes good on the claim.

We don't know about other makes of tires, but we do know —that motorists who have used United States Tires continue to use them;

—that more and more motorists who used other makes of tires are turning to United States Tires.

These two facts are proved by the amazing sales increases of United States Tires

—sales increases that are vastly greater than even the greater natural increase in the number of automobiles this year over last —which shows where tire service is.

How to Have Red Lips!

The girl with red lips and pink cheeks may be thankful for both delicate health—vigorous, forceful, magnetic health, and while it may be impossible for some to attain owing to morbid states of health, yet a vast majority of seemingly healthy young women and men are almost colorless, because of a lack of blood corpuscles. When the blood is improved and enriched with these red corpuscles, the weight increases and a beautiful tint appears on the cheeks, while the lips assume a healthy red color. Many physicians and beauty doctors prescribe three-grain hypo-nutrine tablets which are said to invariably increase the red blood corpuscles after a course of treatment lasting several months. The nervous system and general health also improve rapidly. The best physicians and apothecary shops supply this tablet in sealed packages.

There are three parties to a telephone call—the person calling, the person called, and the operator who connects them. Are You Ready to Talk?

Mr. Jones wanted to talk with Mr. Thomas and asked his clerk to call him by telephone.

When Mr. Thomas answered, he was told to "wait a minute."

A few moments later when Jones got ready to talk, he found no one on the line. Thinking the operator had cut him off, he asked his clerk to put in the call again.

That happened three times; then Jones got mad and put in the call himself.

Mr. Thomas answered and Mr. Jones said, "What the deuce is the matter with your telephone, Charlie? This is the fourth time I have called you."

To which Mr. Thomas replied, "Oh! it was you that was calling? I did answer the telephone three times and was told each time to 'wait a minute.' I could not see any reason why I should waste my time holding the line for someone else, so hung up. If you yourself had been on the line, ready to talk the first time I answered, you would have saved each of us a lot of time and bother."

Jones was cured.

When answering the telephone, it is aggravating to be told to "wait a minute," and yet hundreds of people impose in just that way on those they have occasion to call.

It may be easier for the busy man to save time by asking a clerk to put in a call, but the other person should receive due consideration and not be unnecessarily inconvenienced.

NEW ENGLAND TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH COMPANY
C. J. LEATHERS, Manager

A QUARTER CENTURY AGO

In a down town hotel dining room, a few evenings ago, a number of men were discussing general topics of a local nature and all agreed that Lowell had taken great strides as regards population, prosperity, wages, diversity of industries, etc.

"But Lowell has gone way back as a show town," remarked one of the gathering, an old timer who never missed a theatrical performance in this city, in days gone by.

He was immediately disputed and his attention was called to the fact that while 25 years ago there were only the Opera House and Grand Hall, with occasionally an attraction at the Grand Hall, today the city supports one leading vaudeville house, a musical comedy theatre, one fine resident stock theatre and six up-to-date picture houses.

"That's all very true," replied the old time theatrician, "but if you want to see modern drama and its stars, or opera, comic or otherwise and its stars, where do you have to go but to Boston, and this season to Lawrence, for they are running big road companies into Lawrence occasionally this year, but you don't get them in Lowell any more."

"The one of the party suggested that he would rather see a good drama portrayed on the film than by the spoken word, claiming that the film production gives a wealth of detail that cannot be produced otherwise, and he quoted 'The Witching Hour,' recently presented on the screen at the Merrimack Square, as an illustration. He had seen it presented by the spoken word in New York and on the film in Lowell and claimed that he preferred the screen production.

Quarter of a century ago the late John Cosgrove managed the Lowell Opera House, and the Opera House never, before or since, saw such big days, or more properly nights, as it did under his management. Favorably known in the theatrical world, he had no trouble in booking for his theatre, all the leading road attractions that came east, and at the close of his season, quarter of a century ago, the old Sun highly complimented him upon his season's success and published the

MARY BAKER EDDY MEMORIAL, MT. AUBURN CEMETERY, CAMBRIDGE, MASS.

The beautiful memorial to Mary Baker Eddy, the discoverer and founder of Christian Science, has been turned over to the Christian Science board of directors by Elbert S. Barlow of New York city, who held the contract for its construction.

The memorial, which is at Mt. Auburn cemetery, Cambridge, has required over a year and a half to complete. The fund for its construction, amounting to over $150,000, was first announced by the directors in June, 1911, and was some time ago fully subscribed. These contributions have been made as expressions of sentiment by Christian Scientists throughout the world.

The site on which the memorial is located is not only one of great natural beauty, but on account of its grade has rendered possible a more picturesque and interesting treatment architecturally than would be possible on a perfectly level lot. The plot which is approximately 80 feet square, slopes gradually from the level of the roadway to the lake with a drop of about ten feet. The memorial consists of a circular open colonnade of eight columns, resting upon a stylobate of three steps, surrounded on the front by a circular platform slightly above the natural grade, from which platform a double flight of steps leads to a lower platform said old George, "I guess you struck the wrong road. They ain't any colored folks down Billerica way unless they moved in within a few days."

"Mulatter, you — coyote!" Who said anything about mulatters? cried the major in a burst of anger. "Do you think we're chasing up a nigger funeral?" and the other occupants of the hack had to restrain him from getting out and challenging Mr. Lord to mortal combat.

This was the funeral at which Peter Davey furnished the pall-bearers at one dollar per head and the bears struck for an additional dollar before they would take the body out of the house. Had Peter only tipped off Major Burke about the hold-up, the major at the lake's edge. The scheme has no prototype and is merely a screen of columns open to the sky, enclosing a flower garden circle.

The material used for the memorial is Bethel white granite, the inscription in the frieze and upon the top of the pylons being of white bronze set deep into the stone work. The detail, which on account of the size of the reproduction is only indicated, is entirely done in form and free in treatment, the wide rose and the morning glory being used as the main motives. It is interesting architecturally to note that while it is extremely free in treatment and not at all conventional, it is generally very classic in feeling. The extreme width of the memorial is about 30 feet, and the columns are 18 ft. in diameter. The columns themselves are 15 feet in height and are similar in general character to those in the Cypselus of Andronicus of Cyrrhus. The large pylons were exhibited at the American Institute of Architecture in New York a short time ago and experts pronounced them the finest pieces of carved granite ever executed.

The architect is Egerton Swartwout of New York city, who designed the new George Washington memorial, the new Missouri state capitol and the new federal building in Denver.

for in all probability would have proven a most effective strike-breaker.

He's Still Revolving

"Larry" Cummings is about to complete a quarter of a century of service on the Boston Globe, and he's still revolving with it. Larry was on the earth some years before getting on the Globe and was also on the Citizen before it became a hyphenated Citizen by joining with the Courier. The younger newspapermen affectionately refer to Mr. Cummings as "Pop" Cummings when he's not around. The Star of a century ago said of Mr. Cummings:

"Lawrence J. Cummings, who retires from the Citizen to devote his entire time to his work for the Boston Globe, was banqueted at the Waverly house by Mr. Rice, on behalf of the Citizen company. He was presented a beautiful gold watch by Mr. Rice and made a graceful speech expressive of his appreciation of the gift."

Like many another successful man Larry's first acquaintance with the newspaper business was as a salesman, in other words a newsboy, though he sold them not in Lowell but in Boston, and like many another newspaper writer he started out to be a printer but got into the editorial room and remained in that end of the business.

HAY FOR WILD DUCKS

To have been known as the leading authority in the country on the feeding of wild ducks since the age of 16 years is the unique distinction of Clyde B. Terrell of Oshkosh, Wis., now a famous naturalist at the age of 22 years.

Mr. Terrell has lived all his life on his father's farm just outside of Oshkosh. As soon as he was old enough to walk he went to the lakes and marshes to watch the habits of the water fowls. While lying concealed in the grass one day he observed that the ducks ate only one kind of plant. From this simple discovery he has developed a life vocation, a profitable business and scientific investigations that have received the endorsement of the bureau of biological survey of the United States department of agriculture.

Young Terrell gathered the seeds from the water plants and experimented with them on his father's farm. So successful was he that the place became famous for its ducks. Other sportsmen became interested and Terrell's father furnished the seed to them as neighbors to neighbors.

Before planting any seeds Mr. Terrell always makes a complete inspection of the lakes, streams, marshes and ponds of the premises. He tests the water and soil; he finds out what duck feeds are best adapted to the soil and what kinds of ducks are best suited to the place. After a careful plan has been drawn up Mr. Terrell plants the seeds himself.

The theory upon which Mr. Terrell proceeds is a very simple one, which runs as follows: "Ducks must eat to live. Ducks will swim to the spots where there is something they can eat. Therefore, if you want ducks, plant something for them to eat."

AMUSEMENT NOTES

The following notices are from the press agents of the theatres mentioned.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

A show without a commensurate art in it is offered at the B. F. Keith theatre this week. Full of pep, varied and always entertaining, it is the kind of a theatrical layout that will make appeal to all kinds and classes of theatregoers. "The Garden of Love," a pretty musical piece, features Walter Shannon, baritone, and Marie Annis, contralto. The background of this is Egypt, and the music, semi-popular in character, is decidedly good. All of the trappings of this piece breathe of the Arabian desert. The atmosphere may be said to be provided in abundance. Gordon and Perry, two merry men, have a musical revue which covers all of the latest phases of music, and they toss in a few distinctive touches which makes the act decidedly different. Lou Hall and Hilda Thomas in "The Traveling Man," have a rollicking comedy vehicle. Hall is a good comedian, and Mrs. Thomas plays a breezy drummer. Charles Benson and Florence Bird of the "Songbirds," an act of comedy with music, while the Three Little Girls, the Fleeters, who are Indian, the Crawford and Broderick are a wholly interesting pair, and Archie and Gertie Falls do aerial and ground work that is astonishing. The Three New pictures are engaging. Seats for Patriots Day should be engaged in advance.

OPERA HOUSE

If laughter helps you, then see the Emerson Players this week in "Seven Days." If it hurts, stay away. The place is the handiwork of Mary Roberts Rhinehart and Avery Hopwood, and it purpose is the dispensing of good, rich comedy which it pours forth in abundance, through the medium of interesting characters and a combination of funny situations that follow one another in rapid order. Besides being rich in comedy, the play offers ample opportunity for unique and elaborate stage settings. In this particular respect, the play is a triumph. The scenery is of the kind that has a full realization of the importance of such conditions to a successful presentation. The setting of a fully equipped, modern and sanitary kitchen, shown in the second act, is truly commendable, and should appeal strongly to the playgoers generally. For happy blending of comedy and dramatic action, that help so much in an artistic presentation, are also provided in the other two acts. James Price, the new scenic artist engaged by the Emerson players, has done his part in this piece of scenic art, in this particular line, and the accomplishments of his first week here stamp him as one who is thoroughly versed in his work. As to the presentation of the play itself, nothing more complimentary can be said than to again repeat the spontaneous recognition and enthusiastic applause accorded the Emerson players in their performance. Ann O'Day's happy family of landing comedy lines and situations, quite as well as the highly dramatic scenes of the part, makes her work thoroughly enjoyable. And Jimmy Hayden, whose family expressions are almost invariably good for a laugh, is extremely funny this week. Clay Clement, Edward Kennedy, Miss Jessie Irish, and the others of the cast join lustriously in the fun-making. Next week the Emerson players will present "The Natural Law," the much talked of dramatic sensation that recently started Boston.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

Academy of Music this week are the specialties by the Emerson Players, two of the best sister acts on the musical comedy stage today.

The Emerson Players, Cecil and Bernice, have an excellent act, one which both young ladies have splendid opportunity to display their talent. Cecil, who by the way, is a former Lowell girl, is one of those dainty little maidens possessed of a sweet voice, excellent stage manners and personality. She is very clever in portraying male parts and has a reputation of "Good Latch Key" is worthy of the name. Bernice, who is by far the best singer who has appeared in musical comedy in this city for a long time and her rendition of "Cavalier" has attracted many music lovers to the theatre who have enjoyed her singing in a most favorable manner. A lot of the Emerson specialties, the dancing and singing "Kissin' Koo," which is catchy and full of action.

The Emerson Players, Cecil and Bernice, are well known to the public and are general favorites wherever they go, but especially so in Lowell, where they are always given a warm greeting by the theatregoers. The specialties which they present for their act include singing, dancing, whistling and a little comedy. The opening number is "If You Only Had My Disposition," by which Cecil goes through a look and sing dance which includes many original and pleasing steps. Bernice's original song, "There's Still Room for You," is a real gem. The pair show plenty of action in their rendition of "The Hummed House." Their close-up dancing and whistling specialties, the audience joining in the whistling.

Clay Clement, that clever little comedian, continues to please the audience, while comedy is scattered throughout the act. The Emerson Players, Joe Taylor, R. Cunningham and Eddie Walsh. The final performance of "A Poussee Cafe" will be given this evening.

Continuing tomorrow afternoon and continuing afternoon and evening during the remainder of the week the Miller Musical Comedy Co. will present "The Natural Law" and "Cafe de Luxe," the latter being a cabaret show. Tickets are now on sale for the performance during the remainder of the week. The box office telephone 1155 and seats will be reserved.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

After tonight will be too late to see little Mary Pickford's most human characterization in her latest "Rich Girl," which she is making more famous than ever. This country over, this is the best picture which the "Nation's Sweetheart" has produced and it goes far beyond all the others in elaborateness, appeal, and realism. In a most plausible manner, which appeals to the hearts of her audience, Mary plays to perfection the role of a little girl brought up amidst all that wealth usually gives, but she pines for human companionship.

The new bill for the next three days of this week is the holiday program, which starts with the musical comedy, "The Garden of Love," and which will continue Friday and Saturday with continuous performances daily. All and each of the features on this bill can truly be called splendid in the line of art. Captivating, Kitty Gordon will be seen on this special holiday program in her latest five-act masterpiece, "Forget-Me-Not." As a stage play, it is one of the best of the season. Now in motion pictures it has been staged on a scale utterly impossible of the speaking stage. Kitty Gordon delineates the role of the heroine, a girl who climbs to a position of wealth, in an attention-grabbing manner. This entertainment you should not miss. On this same splendid program is the direct feature, "The Garden of Love," a stirring play of a sea-borne town, in which charming Blanche Sweet interprets the leading role. It is a story of a girl who bears the disgrace of her sister's kidnapping, and is almost driven from the village to protect her own flesh and blood, but she is the avenger and the tides of fortune play an all-important part in the destinies of the characters. The play is a show, beautiful, natural and rugged reality. Many other plays will also be shown on the same bill program at the Merrimack Square theatre for the next three days of this week.

PLAYHOUSE

The closing performance of the three days engagement of the splendid road attraction, "The Little Girl in a Big City," will be presented by the cast of this theatre this evening. No one should miss this unique opportunity of witnessing one of the most human, appealing, timely and true to life plays ever written. New York with all its clamor and noise, and the background of this superbly acted play which, by the way, is not a moving picture. This is the last night for tomorrow, Margaret Anglin will appear on a one day's stop in Lowell, giving a revival of "Green Stockings." The price of "A Little Girl in a Big City" at this evening's performance are 25, 35, 50 and 75 cents. Phone 1170.

CROWN THEATRE

Around a woman with the charms of Cleopatra and the heart of a stone, and an unsophisticated country youth, cast over night into the exciting whirl of a big city, with all its temptations and dangers, is the story of "The New York Peacock," which will be shown at the Crown theatre today and tomorrow. Valeska Suratt, the best-known interpreter of such roles, will be seen in the title role of the new play, and the bill will be fully rounded by the epoch celebrity, William H. Hall.

The story deals with a young man, hired to a gambler's den, by a beautiful woman, and in the process of all the money he possesses. How the money is finally restored after the woman who had lured him on realizes that she loves him, forms the dramatic climax of the play. The successful box features are based for some time, other features.

NEWS OF THE LEGISLATURE OF LOCAL INTEREST

Special to The Sun
STATE HOUSE, Boston, April 18.—The house had a little flurry yesterday over Senator Arthur W. Colburn's amendment to the resolutions asking congress to take such action as may be necessary to regulate the retail price of coal, the amendment adding "wheat, corn, oats and other cereals" as other commodities, the prices of which should be regulated.

Representative Burr of Boston opposed the amendment as a "piece of animosity," and it looked as though he might succeed in preventing concurrence, for when the rising vote was taken there were 54 members in favor and the same number opposed. When a roll-call was ordered, however, and it became necessary to go on record, in black and white, most of the "doubtful Thomases" fled to cover, and the house concurred, 128 to 73.

Within a day or two attested copies of the resolutions will be forwarded by the secretary of the commonwealth to Vice President Marshall and Speaker Clark of the House.

Marchand's Bill Kept Alive

On motion of Senator James W. Bean of Cambridge, action was postponed until next Monday on the report of the public service committee, against the petition of former Senator George B. Marchand for legislation to authorize the appointment of two additional court officers in Middlesex county.

Textile School Wins

A unanimous report in favor of the Lowell Textile school bill—appropriating $50,000 for the maintenance of the school and approximately $15,000 for improvements—was filed in the senate today by the ways and means committee. Inasmuch as Senator Bean of Cambridge is a member of this committee, it is assumed that his opposition to the original resolve has been placated as a result of the changes made by the committee on education.

George Chesley's Annuity Favored

Another matter on which the senate ways and means committee has acted favorably is the bill permitting the county of Middlesex to pay an annuity of $240 per year to George Chesley of Lowell, formerly an employee of the county, but who after 19 years of service is now incapacitated by approaching blindness.

Tour Workers' Bill in Danger

As expected, the senate today refused to concur with the house in its amendment to the bill limiting the hours of labor of employees in paper mills, the house desiring that such employees shall not be "requested or permitted" to work more than eight hours per day, while the senate insists that the prohibition shall be only that they shall not be "required" to do so. The senate took its action by a roll-call vote of 29 to 18, so there seems little chance that it will recede, and unless the house takes back water the bill will probably fail to pass.

Civil Service for City Clerks

The public service committee reported a bill providing that city clerks shall be under the civil service rules and regulations in all cities which accept the provisions of the act.

Constitutional Convention

By a unanimous opinion, submitted to the senate, the justices of the supreme court decide that the legislature has no authority to amend the act providing for the constitutional convention, and that it cannot permit women to vote on the recommendations of the convention. The court declined to discuss the questions submitted by the legislature as to the method which the convention should adopt for submitting its recommendations to the people, basing its decision upon the fact that the legislature has before it no legislation which might be affected by the court's decision on these questions.

Shortly after the decision of the court was announced, a petition was filed in the house providing that the holding of the convention shall be postponed until June, 1918, and that the election, scheduled for Tuesday, May 1, this year, be postponed until the first Tuesday in May, 1918.

This petition was referred to the committee on rules, but in view of the court's decision it seems hardly probable that it will be admitted for consideration.

Farm Labor Shortage

The house committee on rules has before it an order requiring the secretary of the state board of agriculture to inform the house on or before next Monday as to the prevailing conditions in Massachusetts with respect to the shortage of laborers on farms.

New Kind of Strike

Just at the time when the officials of the commonwealth are bending every energy to secure the earliest possible completion of the Boston drydock, their hands were completely tied today when one hundred Italian laborers went on strike, demanding that they be permitted to work more than eight hours per day. So far as can be ascertained, this is the first time in the history of the commonwealth that laboring men have struck for longer hours.

ROYT.

TO PERMIT GARDENING ON SUNDAY

BOSTON, April 18.—The house committee on rules has voted to recommend a suspension of the rules to admit a bill based on the petition of Senator John E. Beck of Chelsea that the cultivation of home gardens on the Lord's day be permitted.

A bill to authorize cities and towns to plow and harrow private land upon application of the owners of such land was filed yesterday in the house of representatives by Representative J. Weston Allen on behalf of the city officials of Newton.

The bill provides that, during the war

and for one year after, cities and towns of over 5000 population may plow and harrow private lands. The amount of land to be so prepared for any one owner shall not exceed two acres and the cost of the work shall be paid by the owners.

Work authorized under the act, may be done under the direction of the superintendent of streets, or the board or officer having like authority in any city or town, or by the municipal forester or tree warden.

LICENSE COMMISSION

The license commission met in regular session last night and transacted considerable business. At this time of the year practically all of the minor licenses are renewed and last night the first batch of annual renewals was acted upon.

The following were the renewals voted last night: Express and job wagons: Daniel D. Barry, 149 Anderson street; Chester H. Zimmer, 133 Paige street; Nelson E. Richardson, East Chelmsford; John R. Clancy, 25 Floyd street; Frederick A. Taylor, 149 Humphrey street; Frank H. Every tire claims to be the lowest-cost-per-mile tire.

If you knew the experience of any considerable number of other tire users,

We don't know about other makes of tires, but we do know

These two facts are proved by the amazing sales increases of United States Tires

How to Have Red Lips!

The girl with red lips and pink cheeks may be thankful for both denote health—vigorous, forceful, magnetic health, and while it may be impossible for some to attain owing to morbid states of health, yet a vast majority of seemingly healthy young women and men are almost colorless, because of a lack of blood corpuscles. When the blood is improved and enriched with these red corpuscles, the weight increases and a beautiful tint appears on the cheeks, while the lips assume a healthy red color. Many physicians and beauty doctors prescribe three-grain hypo-nucleus tablets which are said to invariably increase the red blood corpuscles after a course of treatment lasting several months. The nervous system and general health also improve rapidly. The best physicians and apothecaries supply this tablet in sealed packages.

This advertisement is one of a series designed to effect closer cooperation between the company and its subscribers. There are three parties to a telephone call—the person calling, the person called, and the operator who connects them. The quality of service rendered is determined by the spirit in which all three work together, rather than by the individual effort of any one or two of these three persons. We will gladly send complete sets of the series to those desiring them.

Are You Ready to Talk?

Mr. Jones wanted to talk with Mr. Thomas and asked his clerk to call him by telephone.

When Mr. Thomas answered, he was told to "wait a minute."

A few moments later when Jones got ready to talk, he found no one on the line. Thinking the operator had cut him off, he asked his clerk to put in the call again.

That happened three times; then Jones got mad and put in the call himself.

To which Mr. Thomas replied, "Oh! it was you that was calling? I did answer the telephone three times and was told each time to 'wait a minute.' I could not see any reason why I should waste my time holding the line for someone else, so hung up. If you yourself had been on the line, ready to talk the first time I answered, you would have saved each of us a lot of time and bother."

Jones was cured.

When answering the telephone, it is aggravating to be told to "wait a minute," and yet hundreds of people impose in just that way on those they have occasion to call.

It may be easier for the busy man to save time by asking a clerk to put in a call, but the other person should receive due consideration and not be unnecessarily inconvenienced.

HAIL GLORIOUS FRANCE!

France has scored a signal victory over the Germans in a fierce battle of several days' duration.

Although the Teutons made a desperate resistance, they were overcome at all points by the dash and valor of the French forces under command of General Nivelle. The rout was complete and in their resistance the Germans lost very heavily in killed and wounded, the number being placed as high as 100,000.

It is believed now that this defeat will result in forcing the Germans to retire from French soil. General Nivelle usually follows up any advantage he wins after a severe battle of this kind. The fact that 10,000 prisoners and a large quantity of war material were captured shows the character of the victory. When this victory by the French is connected with the smashing blows struck by the British during the past two weeks, the real force and power of the spring drive can be seen. The Teutons are being pressed back from the North Sea to the Swiss border. The Germans will soon have to defend Metz against the forward drive of the Allies. Some people felt that Germany could not put up such a desperate resistance; but the power that can fight as she is doing, cannot be said to be beaten. The drive against her is by far the most powerful since the beginning of the war.

General Hindenburg, the Kaiser's favorite commander, is being beaten at every point, not only by superior numbers but also by superior generalship.

In these victories for the Allies there is great encouragement for the United States and Russia. It is very evident that a great effort is being made to induce Russia to make a separate peace. It is hoped, however, that the new republic will stand by her agreement with the Allies in order to hasten the end of the war. It is likely that the pressure on the western front will prevent Germany from giving much attention to Russia. The latter, however, by continuing to co-operate with her Allies can do much to force Germany into submission. But should Russia drop out, she would lose the advantages which she would otherwise gain at the close of the war; and the other Allies, England, France, Italy and the United States would then dictate the final settlement. By remaining in the war to the end, Russia will be assured of having access to the open sea via the Dardanelles. The American commission which is to visit Russia relative to a plan of co-operation, may be able to induce her to reject all proposals of peace until such times as the general peace comes which, it is hoped, cannot be long delayed.

PATRIOTS DAY

Tomorrow will be Patriots Day, the anniversary of the first real battle of the Civil war fifty-six years ago in the streets of Baltimore. In that preliminary skirmish three Lowell men became martyrs to the union cause—Ladd, Whitney and Taylor. These heroes brought renown to their city and the city in turn has nobly honored their memory, holding up their patriotic example as one which may well inspire the young men of today to deeds of heroism in the cause of their country. The cause for which the Union soldiers fought was a holy cause and its triumph has preserved to the world a union of states which has grown to be the grandest nation on earth.

Today this republic, so gloriously preserved, has embarked in another war, in which the issues affect not alone the western hemisphere but the entire world. The war we now wage is that of right against might, against the aspiration of autocracy to rule the world, against scientific barbarism threatening to overrun the earth, against militarism gone mad and now tearing down the very bulwarks of civilization. In this world struggle, it is confidently hoped that our citizens will show patriotism as noble, heroism as brave, self-sacrifice as sublime as they did throughout those four long years of strife by which this union of states was made one and inseparable forever.

In this war there is no north, no south, but all united under one glorious flag and willing to die beneath its folds to bring this land a victory greater, if possible, because more universal than any in her history. Moreover, in this war the United States fights side by side with the democracies of the world for the freedom of the seas, the restoration of international law, for justice to subject nationalities, for the defense of civilization and the general uplift of human kind.

MAKE THE SHIPS SMOKELESS

Some weeks ago The Sun called attention to an essential change necessary in one feature of the vessels, large or small, that undertake to pass through the submarine zone. That was the elimination of smoke from the funnels. The cloud of smoke rising from a steamer at sea is seen often for a distance of fifty miles. It is a signal to all the submarines within that radius to get ready for their prey. Yet in spite of the evident need of a change, we understand that the most of the freight steamers passing through the war zone, send out dense smoke as usual. It is a great help to the submarines in locating them at a distance. Even on a clear night this cloud of smoke left in the wake of a steamer can be seen for a considerable distance.

Our object in this article is to emphasize the fact that every one of the small wooden vessels to be provided by the United States for doing a freight business between the United States and Europe, should be provided with smoke consuming devices, so that they may not throw up to the sky the usual warning clouds that foretell a steamer's approach and often make her an easy prey for the submarines.

It may be assumed that a smokeless steamer has ten chances of safe passage through the war zone to one of the steamer that leaves a cloud of smoke stretching for miles behind her. This is a problem that must be solved in the construction of the most quiet fleet to consist of 1000 moderate sized vessels to be turned out by the ship yards of the United States at the rate of two or three a day. Admiral Jellicoe, first sea lord of the British admiralty, is confident that these vessels will render most valuable assistance in defeating the submarines. They certainly will if they are smokeless. Otherwise they will be merely self announced targets for the submarines. Had each vessel a tender to go ahead and notify the submarines of her approach, the warning would not be as effective as the cloud of smoke rising into the air and visible in clear weather for a great distance. When steamers put out their lights at night it is important also that they suppress the smoke absolutely and completely. Make the mosquito fleet entirely smokeless and it will then be most effective in fighting the submarines.

AUDITING THE ACCOUNTS

This controversy over the auditing of the city's accounts as required by law is very unseemly. The commissioner of finance is authorized by the charter to have this done. It appears Commissioner Donnelly had hired an expert, when three members of the municipal council voted to hire a different expert. Mr. Tarbox was first engaged and the municipal council, it appears, afterwards, voted to engage Mr. Rex. Now that Mr. Donnelly reports the work completed by the expert of his selection, the question comes on the adoption of the report. If the municipal council has any criticism to make of the Tarbox audit, it should make the fact known. Why a second audit should be made is not clear unless it can be shown that that already finished is not reliable. Has the city money to throw away for unnecessary work?

GERMANY BLOCKADES US

The fact that a German submarine fired at an American warship south of New York would indicate that the submarines are on this side of the Atlantic to do all the harm they can. They will doubtless screw the sea lanes with mines, so that mine sweepers will have to set busy in order to prevent disasters. Germany expects to do harm here before we have time to organize our defense. Tip the lid and let them!

RECKLESS DRIVING

Now that the good weather is at hand, it is in order to caution reckless auto drivers and motorists against fast driving on the public streets and highways.

We have had a few local cases in which persons' accidents resulted through their recklessness. This speed mania must be checked as it endangers the lives of those who use the highways with due care. The roadsters who are the menace of the public highways should be closely watched by the police.

LOYALTY OR TREASON

President Wilson's statement of the law of treason as it applies to aliens and citizens should be carefully studied and observed by all residents in the United States. The law demanding loyalty to the United States in time of war is more strict than most people imagine. The penalties for treason which is a violation of this law range from heavy fine and imprisonment to death.

FIXING PRICES

The proposition of the Chicago packers to have the government fix maximum and minimum prices for their products is something entirely new in this country. It is believed that such an arrangement would safeguard the public against extortion. The government should regulate the price of coal and all the staple articles of food. Otherwise prices during the war will reach prohibitive figures.

CANADIAN WHEAT

The action of Canada in placing wheat on the free list opens the markets of this country to the wheat of Canada. By a reciprocal arrangement on the tariff whenever Canada puts certain articles on the free list the United States does the same. Canada has wheat for export, but owing to the lack of tonnage there is little of it going to Europe. It may now be sent through this country.

THE RIVER BILL

The Lowell delegation in common with the other legislators of the Merrimack valley has done well in supporting the bill for the Merrimack river appropriation. The bill having passed the house it is to be hoped that it will fare equally well in the senate.

It is a common saying in time of peace prepare for war; but ex-President Taft has reversed it and at a time in which war has involved practically the entire world he prepares for a form of world peace that will make another such war impossible.

The new tariff commission, having been confirmed, is now in a position to investigate business problems and prepare for the industrial era to follow the war.

Seen and Heard

You can't always judge the dinner by the price.

Some men are so unworthy of confidence that their own dogs distrust them.

A lecturer for the Massachusetts state board of agriculture talking on best methods to be used in planning a small garden said: "Of this you may be certain. If you plant the right seed at the right time in the right place, you may be sure of your crop."

We can't start the garden on no such advice as that. Won't the gentleman please amplify?

Sufferings Cured by Medicine Recommended by Sister-in-law.

Jamaica, N. Y.—"I suffered greatly with my head and with backache, was weak, dizzy, nervous, with hot flashes and felt very miserable, as I was irregular for two years. One day when I was feeling unusually bad my sister-in-law came in and said, 'I wish you would try Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound.' So I began taking it and I am now in good health and am cured. I took the Compound three times a day after meals, and on retiring at night. I always keep a bottle in the house."—Mrs. L. N. BURNHAM, 235 South St., Jamaica, N. Y.

FEEDING THE CHILD OF FOUR
During the fourth year, milk still remains an important part of the child's food, but much of it may now be given in the form of bread and milk, milk soups, or milk puddings, or it may be poured over the cereals. Some children object to drinking milk, and in such cases it is wiser to offer it under some such disguise. The cereal need no longer be strained but must be very thoroughly cooked.

The diet at this time should include all the articles advised for the two earlier years, with the addition of more meat, vegetables and fruits. Baked potatoes, with a little butter, as a staple food at this period. Bread and butter, or toast and butter, and plenty of hard crusts or zwieback are important. Eggs or meat, such as roasted, broiled, or boiled beef, mutton, chicken or fish, should be given at least once a day.

The child of four will probably nurse on three or four meals a day, the heaviest being taken in the middle of the day. It is better to be hungry at a light lunch such as milk, may be given in the interval between breakfast and dinner or between dinner and supper, but no nibbling should be permitted between meals. A child should be taught to come to the table with that vigorous appetite for his food which leads to good digestion and assimilation.

Food should be carefully prepared to fit it to a child's powers and should be served in an appetizing fashion at proper intervals. Young children should not be offered "tastes" of the family meals, as this habit tends to destroy the appetite for the simple, rather restricted diet adapted to their need.

Children should have an abundance of pure cool drinking water. This is especially important in summer when they are perspiring freely. If there is any doubt about the purity of the water it should be filtered or boiled, or both.

Since it is always difficult for children to chew their food properly it should be finely minced, mashed, or softened for them throughout these early years.

Never under any circumstances should children be given coffee, tea, or strong cocoa. They should have a highly seasoned or spiced food, rich pastries, raw vegetables, onions, corn or cabbage. Bananas and all part of the fruit are apt to make trouble.

If children are inclined to be constipated they should have plenty of laxative foods. These are cereals, particularly oatmeal; the coarser breads, such as Graham and whole wheat; fruit or fruit juice, particularly oranges and prunes; and vegetables like string beans, asparagus and spinach.

Many children suffer from malnutrition, that is, they fail to secure the food materials they need for development and growth, and consequently they are undersized, pale, often slow and listless, and do not show the eager, alert habits of healthy children. Malnutrition may be due to lack of sufficient food of any kind, to improper food, bad cooking, or to some fault of digestion, or to illness which makes it impossible for the child properly to utilize the food he eats.

It is a wise precaution, therefore, if children are out of sorts, have decayed teeth, bad breath, or seem tired and disinclined to play, to have them examined by a good doctor, and to take all trouble necessary to get them into sound eating habits. The neglect of these early symptoms may mean a lifetime of only partial health and efficiency.

Kidney Trouble May Cause Dropsical Swellings

Foley Kidney Pills Highly Recommended For This Condition

Dropsy, with all its signs and symptoms, including weak heart, general debility, swollen joints, ankles and limbs; headache, sleeplessness and nervousness, are all evidence of a certain kind of kidney trouble. Irregular bladder action, too frequent passage of water, and rising time after time at night, are also proof that the kidneys are not in a healthy state.

Foley Kidney Pills have handled just such cases with absolute success. They have cleared away the dropsical condition, have restored the kidneys to normal activity, and brought the sufferer to a state of sound health.

Mrs. Mattie Graham, Box 479, Battle Creek, Mich., has written fully in regard to her case. We quote only part of her letter which says: "I was troubled with kidney and bladder trouble that finally developed into dropsy. I had a dull pain in my back, first my ankles swelled up, and then the whole lower part of my body became bloated and swollen. I used

In a down town hotel dining room, a few evenings ago, a number of men were discussing general topics of a local nature and all agreed that Lowell had taken great strides as regards population, prosperity, wages, diversity of industries, etc.

"But Lowell has gone way back as a show town," remarked one of the gathering, an old timer who never missed a theatrical performance in this city, in days gone by.

He was immediately disputed and his attention was called to the fact that while 25 years ago there were only the Opera House and Music Hall, with occasionally an attraction at Huntington Hall, today the city supports one leading vaudeville house, a musical comedy theatre, one fine resident stock theatre and six up-to-date picture houses.

"That's all very true," replied the old time theatregoer, "but if you want to see modern drama and its stars, or opera, comic or otherwise and its stars, where do you have to go but to Boston, and this season to Lawrence, for they are running big road companies into Lawrence occasionally this year, but you don't get them in Lowell any more."

Then one of the party suggested that he would rather see a good drama portrayed on the films than by the spoken word, claiming that the film production gives a wealth of detail that cannot be produced otherwise, and he quoted "The Witching Hour," recently presented on the screen at the Merrimack Square, as an illustration. He had seen it presented by the spoken word in New York and on the film in Lowell, and claimed that he preferred the screen production.

Quarter of a century ago the late John Gough, manager of the Lowell Opera House, and the Opera House, never before or since, saw such big days, or more properly nights, as it did under his management. Favorably known in the theatrical world, he had no trouble in booking for his theatre, all the leading road attractions that came east, and at the close of his season, quarter of a century ago, the old Sun highly complimented him upon his season's success and published the complete list of plays that had appeared during the season, among which were many of the leading attractions of that time. Here are some of them: "H. E. Dwyer in 'Lord Chumley'; Henry E. Dwyer in 'The Solicitor'; James O'Neill in 'Monte Christo'; W. J. Scanlon in 'Mavourneen'; Robert Mantell in 'The Corsican Brothers'; Stuart Robson in 'The Henrietta'; Frank Mayo in 'Dave Crockett'; Nellie McHenry in 'A Night at the Circus'; Fanny Rice (a Lowell girl) in 'A Jolly Surprise'; 'The Dazzler'; James T. Powers in 'A Straight Tip'; Pauline Hall, Mlle. Rhee in 'Lacarina'; Helen Barry, Reed & Collier; N. J. Burgess in 'The Country Fair'; Sol Smith Russell in 'The Peaceful Valley'; Mlle. Januscheck; Oliver God Byron in 'The Plunger'.

For minstrels there were Primrose & West, appearing twice; Gorman Brothers and Thatcher's. Then there were several Boyt face companies, the Bostonians and several light opera companies; the Southern, with its wealth of stage settings and effects, played an entire week, while now and then Gus Hill, Fay Foster and others well known in the world of burlesque appeared with first class companies. Among the big money winners of the dramatic world of those days which appeared in Lowell were: "The Solicitor," "Mr. Barnes of New York," "The Plunger," "The Corsican Brothers," "Paul Kaurvar," "Shenandoah," "Soudan," "Held by the Enemy," "Hauds Across the Sea," "Mavourneen," "Henrietta," "Faust," "A Royal Pass," "Jolly Surprise," "Night at the Circus," "Dave Crockett," "Country Fair," "The Peaceful Valley," "Lord Chumley," "Harvest Moon," "Rory of the Hill," "The Lost Paradise" and "The Charity Ball." Those plays were all new and popular in those good old days and not to have seen them meant that you weren't an up-to-date theatregoer.

Manager Cosgrove had them all come to Lowell and most of them played to large houses. Many theatregoers express the hope that Mr. Mayor's new theatre which is going up in Central street may occasionally bring here some good road company by way of variety, for it is understood the stage of the new theatre will be large and deep enough to enable the presentation of first class dramatic productions. Meanwhile, we're pretty well off as far as good places of amusement are concerned.

Major Burke Wanted to Fight
The recent death of Major John Burke, the old time scout and pal of Buffalo Bill, recalls an amusing story concerning one of the major's visits to Lowell, long ago.

Major Burke came here to attend the funeral of Mrs. Molacchi, wife of Texas Jack, concerning which funeral something appeared in these columns not long ago. Major Burke started from the city to Billerica where the funeral was to be held, in a carriage with Frank Harris, the well known fireman now on pension and others.

Mr. Harris vouches for the story. Major Burke was a very nervous man and was much concerned lest they'd be too late for the funeral. On the way out to Billerica he held up every wagon that passed and extending his head out of the hack window inquired of each of them:

"Did you see anything of the Molacchi funeral as you came along?" They had gotten almost out to North Billerica when along came the famous four horse hitch of the Talbot Chemical company which daily plied between Middle street and North Billerica, since Hector was a pun, driven by old George Lord, who handled the ribbons over that hitch for over a generation, perched on a seat high over the backs of the horses. As the big truck slowly approached, Major Burke held it up and twisting himself almost into a knot so that he could look out into the driver's seat, he cried out:

"Did you see anything of the Molacchi funeral out that way, stranger?" "Mulatter funeral? Mulatter funeral?" said old George. "I guess you struck the wrong road. They ain't any colored folks down Billerica way unless they moved in within a few days."

"Mulatter, you — coyote!" Who said anything about mulatters? cried the major in a burst of anger. "Do you think we're chasing up a bigger funeral?" and the other occupants of the hack had to restrain him from getting out and challenging Mr. Lord to mortal combat.

This was the funeral at which Peter Davey furnished the pall-bearers at one dollar per head and the bearers struck for an additional dollar before they would take the body out of the house. Had Peter only tipped off the major Burke about the hold-up, the major in all probability would have proven a most effective strike-breaker.

He's Still Revolving
"Larry" Cummings is about to complete a quarter of a century of service on the Boston Globe, and he's still revolving with it. "Larry" was on the staff some few years before getting on the Globe and was also on the Citizen before it became a hyphenated paper by joining with the Courier.

The younger newspapermen affectionately refer to Mr. Cummings as "Pop" Cummings—when he's not around. The Sun of a quarter of a century ago said of Mr. Cummings:

"Lawrence J. Cummings, who retires from the Citizen to devote his entire time to his work for the Boston Globe, was banqueted at the Waverly house by Mr. Rice, on behalf of the beautiful gold watch by Mr. Rice and made a graceful speech expressive of his appreciation of the gift."

Like many another successful man Larry's first acquaintance with the newspaper business was as a salesman, in other words a newsboy, though he said the news was a good deal of a writer he started out to be a printer but got into the editorial room and remained in that end of the business.

Whatever the financial status of the new Pawtucket bridge project maybe we have the satisfactory assurance of The Sun of quarter of a century ago that the Aiken street bridge has no encumbrances on it, for the old Sun says:

Unique Memorial Completed

MARY BAKER EDDY MEMORIAL, MT. AUBURN CEMETERY, CAMBRIDGE, MASS.

The beautiful memorial to Mary Baker Eddy, the discoverer and founder of Christian Science, has been turned over to the Christian Science board of directors by Elbert S. Barlow of New York city, who held the contract for its construction.

The memorial, which is at Mt. Auburn cemetery, Cambridge, has required over a year and a half to complete. The fund for its construction, amounting to over $150,000, was first announced by the directors in June, 1911, and was some time ago fully subscribed. These contributions have been made as expressions of sentiment by Christian Scientists throughout the world.

The site on which the memorial is located is not only one of great natural beauty, but on account of its grade has rendered possible a more picturesque and interesting treatment architecturally than would be possible on a perfectly level lot. The plot which is approximately 80 feet square, slopes gradually from the level of the roadway to the lake with a drop of about ten feet. The memorial consists of a circular open colonnade of eight columns, resting upon a stylobate of three steps, surrounded on the front by a circular platform slightly above the natural grade, from which platform a double flight of steps leads to a lower platform at the lake's edge. The scheme has no prototype and is merely a screen of columns open to the sky, enclosing a frieze and upon the top of the columns being of white bronze set deep into the stone work. The detail, which on account of the size of the reproduction is only indicated, is entirely floral in form and free in treatment, the wide rose and the morning glory being used as the main motives. It is interesting architecturally to note that while it is extremely free in treatment and not at all conventional, it is generally very classic in feeling. The extreme width of the memorial is about 50 feet, and the colonnade is 15 ft. in diameter. The columns themselves are 15 feet in height and are similar in general character to those in the Ctesiphon of Andronicus of Cyrrhus. The large pylons were exhibited at the American Institute of Architecture in New York a short time ago and experts pronounced them the finest pieces of carved granite ever executed.

The architect is Egerton Swartwout of New York city, who designed the new George Washington memorial, the new Missouri state capitol and the new federal building in Denver.

BAIT FOR WILD DUCKS

To have been known as the leading authority in the country on the feeding of wild ducks since the age of 18 years is the unique distinction of Clyde B. Terrell of Oshkosh, Wis., now a famous naturalist at the age of 22 years.

Mr. Terrell has planted the seeds of duck foods as far north as the Hudson bay and as far south as Florida. He is now in Texas to advise the members of several hunting clubs how they can bring flocks of wild ducks to their lakes.

Mr. Terrell has lived all his life on his father's farm just outside Oshkosh. As soon as he was old enough to walk he went to the lakes and marshes to watch the habits of the water fowls. While lying concealed in the grass one day he observed that the ducks ate only one kind of plant.

From this simple discovery he has developed a life vocation, a profitable business and scientific investigations that have received the endorsement of the bureau of biological survey of the United States department of agriculture.

Young Terrell gathered the seeds from the water plants and experimented with them on his father's farm. So successful was he that the place became famous for its ducks. Other sportsmen became interested and Terrell's father furnished the seed to them as neighbors to neighbors.

Before planting any seeds Mr. Terrell always makes a complete inspection of the lakes, streams, marshes and ponds of the premises. He tests the water and soil; he finds out what duck foods are best adapted to the soil and what kinds of ducks are best suited to the place. After a careful plan has been drawn up Mr. Terrell plants the seeds himself.

The theory upon which Mr. Terrell proceeds is a very simple one, which runs as follows: "Ducks must eat to live. Ducks will swarm to the spots where there is something they can eat. Therefore, if you want ducks, plant something for them to eat."
